

ADAP Initiative Q & A

What is the ADAP initiative?

A collaboration between the Heinz Family Philanthropies, Abbott and Welvista to expedite access to HIV medications for individuals currently waiting for access to AIDS Drug Assistance Program (ADAP) across the nation.

How does it work?

This initiative was developed to find a solution to a call for help from NASTAD to find ways to simplify access to medications for individuals on ADAP waiting lists rather than the standard patient assistance program (PAP) processes that currently exist.

How is the ADAP initiative funded?

The initiative is funded through private foundations, like the Heinz Family Philanthropies, through pharmaceutical companies such as Welvista's partnerships with Abbott Pharmaceuticals, Bristol-Myers Squibb, Boehringer Ingelheim, Gilead Sciences, Merck and Company, Tibotec, and ViiV Healthcare.

How will Welvista obtain initial and updated patient waiting list information from ADAPs?

Welvista and NASTAD have participated in conference calls with the ADAP Coordinators in waiting list states. Additionally, Welvista has been in touch with staff in several states to discuss state specific issues for the ADAP program. Welvista understands that states need flexibility to enroll their patients into the program so several options have been determined:

1. Patients are enrolled using the ADAP script form, accompanied by a prescription and a letter from the ADAP indicating the client has been added to the ADAP waiting list. It is not necessary that the ADAP coordinator sign the form but any staff person assisting the patient (case manager, physician, or nurse) can do so as long as the ADAP Waiting List letter is included and verifies status on the specific state waiting list. Most ADAPs provide these letters to patients and it was recommended by the state ADAP Coordinators.
2. If the ADAP coordinator is able to authorize the form, the ADAP waiting list letter will not be necessary. The ADAP form will be sent to the prescriber who will attach the appropriate prescription and fax both to Welvista.

How will Welvista deal with privacy concerns and patient authorizations to disclose information?

Welvista is a licensed and permitted pharmacy in good standing with the South Carolina Board of Pharmacy and complies with all applicable federal, state, and local laws and regulations. All parties agree to protect the confidentiality of patient medical records and to comply with the HIPAA. All ADAP client information will be kept confidential and secured. No client information is released except to the designated ADAP and the patient themselves. Any changes to a patient's status will come directly from the patient to Welvista staff or via the ADAP coordinator. In some instances, ADAPs will add Welvista to the client confidentiality disclosure form in order to share patient information. In cases where this will not happen, the patient will contact Welvista directly once the faxed ADAP waiting list letter has been received.

How will patients enroll?

This initiative for patients currently on ADAP waiting lists across the nation eliminates all PAP enrollment forms to access HIV medications. The following procedures apply:

1. All patients must be on a state ADAP waiting list.

2. ADAP Coordinators can enroll patients by using the ADAP Script Form and forwarding the form to the prescriber who will attach the prescription and fax both to Welvista.
3. Some states provide patients with a letter indicating that they have been added to the ADAP waiting list. In these states it is not necessary for the ADAP Coordinator to sign the form. Any case manager, physician, or nurse can enroll the patient by signing the ADAP Script Form, accompanied by a prescription and the letter from the ADAP indicating the patient has been added to the ADAP waiting list.
